REFUSING THEM GRAVES.

WHERE WILL THE EXECUTED ANARCHISTS BE BURIED?

The Directors of Waldheim Cemetery Discuss the Subject for Two Hours—The Conclusion Arrived at—Why the Anarchists were Strangled to Death.

CHICAGO, Nov. 18.—The directors of Waldheim cemetery met yesterday afternoon, to consider the disposal of the five dead Anarchists. After a two hour discussion of the matter, the following was adopted:

"RESOLVED, By the board of directors of the Waldheim Cemetery company, that the corpse of no person who has been sentenced and executed by legal authority shall be allowed a burial place in the same cemetery, unless the lot wherein it is proposed to bury it shall have been owned by said deceased, or one of his near relatives by blood and the death hereof recorded on the company's books prior to his sentence or execution. The board of directors may, by majority vote of all the directors, grant exemptions from the foregoing, but its directions for the location of the proposed grave must be strictly obeyed."

Pursuant to this resolution a committee was appointed to confer with the representatives of the friends of the deceased looking to a location in the cemetery, should the friends decide to inter the remains in Waldheim.

Why All Were Strangled.

CHICAGO, Nov. 18.—A singular, albeit, a plausible reason has been suggested by a physician explanatory of the fact that in the execution of Spies, Parsons, Engel and Fisher, the four condemned Anarchists, not one of the necks of the conspirators was found to be dislocated. It was believed now, it would appear, that the conviction prevailed that the men would be permitted to speak a farewell from the scaffold, as in fact they did. The nooses were not, therefore, adjusted in the proper manner for the speedy execution of the men. The balliffs in charge neglected to finally adjust the neck rope after each of the men had spoken, which had been left relaxed expressly to permit of their words being clearly and distinctly heard.

Anarchist Resolution Showed Under.

FOND DU LAC, Wis., Nov. 18.—At the convention of the Union Labor party of Wisconsin yesterday W. C. Behlen, of Milwaukee, offered a resolution which set forth "That it is a poor commentary on American liberty to see any one condemned to death or lifelong imprisonment for being a mere social reformer, as was the case of the Chicago Anarchists," and "protesting against further interference on the part of public officers in curtailing our constitutional rights." The resolution was almost unanimously passed, the convention not desiring it of a proper political nature to be endorsed.

New Jersey Anarchists.

NEWARK, N. J., Nov. 18.—There are about five hundred Anarchists in this city, and the police are engaged in accurately locating them so as to be able to lay their hands on them promptly in case of trouble. The police commissioners have withdrawn the license to hold Sunday meeting from the proprietor of the Anarchists' headquarters, Le Arbeiter Zeitung, the Anarchists' organ in this city, in an editorial yesterday advised the authorities to prosecute and hang the leaders as the surest way of advancing the cause of Anarchy.

Switchmen and Brakemen Strike.

HOUSTON, Tex., Nov. 18.—Yesterday at 12 o'clock the switchmen employed in the Southern Pacific yards in this city went out on a strike, since which time the receiving of freight at the local depot and from connecting lines has been discontinued and all freight trains abandoned except through trains. All switch engines were ordered in the round house by the railroad officials and the fires put out at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. An order was issued to make up a train to go east. One of the road engines was ordered out and the train, consisting of five cars and a caboose, was coupled together by Trainmaster R. H. Innis. After the conductor had received train orders to leave, it was found that no brakemen were available.

An Unheard of Occurrence.

LOWELL, Mass., Nov. 18.—The Mail today publishes an account of the escape of a Dartmouth college professor in the city. Some time ago a daughter of one of the prominent families at the Highlands became acquainted with the professor while visiting Lebanon, N. H. Since then he has visited her at her home in this city, and a few evenings since, while making his usual call, the couple were surprised by the entrance of the professor's wife. The usual scene followed, and the woman went off into hysterics, necessitating the sending for a physician. Efforts have been made to keep the matter from the public.

What Jesse Grant is Doing.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 18.—The Transcontinental Development company was incorporated yesterday, to obtain various concessions from the government of Mexico for mining purposes, railroad building and lands for exploration, colonization, etc. Its capital stock is $100,000. Jesse R. Grant, the son of the late General Grant, is one of the incorporators and directors. Jesse Grant is now in San Francisco.

Obstetric to Locomotive Smoke.

CHICAGO, Nov. 18.—Henry V. Bemis, proprietor of the Richelieu, began a suit yesterday in the superior court against the Illinois Central Railroad company to recover $25,000 damages alleged to have been caused to his hotel and business by the smoke from defendants' locomotives.

Sweden's Queen Gone Daft.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—The queen of Sweden has become insane, and is residing in strict seclusion at the beautiful castle of Ulriksdal. The queen is the aunt of the duchess of Albany, being a sister of the princess of Waldeck-Pyrmont and of the dowager princess of Wied.

Death of an Irish Patriot.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—John J. Brelin, the well known Irish patriot, died at his home 145 Canal street this morning from Bright's disease. He was fifty-four years old.

A LIKE CAPTAIN'S CRIME.
Indications That He Murdered His Mistress and Then Suicided.

DENVER, Mich., Nov. 18.—Capt. A. H. Mills, a well-known vessel man, was found dead at his home in Jefferson avenue last evening. It is believed he committed suicide, but there are some indications of foul play. Later a new complication was added to the Mills case by the finding of the dead body of Mrs. Au-thu Rising, wife of the manager of Capt. Mills' tug line, in her bed room in East Congress street, but a few blocks from the Mills residence. It has long been a matter of rumor that Capt. Mills was unduly familiar with his manager's wife.

Yesterday afternoon he telephoned to Mr. Rising that he wanted to see him about the tug and would meet him on the dock at 7 o'clock. This was about 4:30. Immediately afterwards the captain went to Mrs. Rising's residence. Shortly afterwards he was seen to rush out of the Rising residence and hasten towards home. About 6:30 Mr. Rising went home with a male companion and the two drank very freely of whisky. Policeman Mulholland hearing the noise looked through the blinds and saw Rising, after drinking, pick up a lamp and go into his wife's room. He came out immediately, and the two men, after taking another drink, went to Capt. Mills' residence.

Rising returned home alone about 10:30, and going into his wife's room for the first time, found her dead body. She lay on the bed with her head riddled with bullets and her blood and brains scattered over the floor and walls. He rushed out and shouted for help. Officer Mulholland came up and arrested Rising on suspicion of having killed his wife. Rigor mortis had already set in, showing that she had been dead some hours.

It appears from the testimony of Capt. Stone, of the steam yacht Leila, that Mills had a quarrel with Mrs. Rising over some appointment which he professed to believe she had made with another man. Mills told Stone, whom he met on coming out of the house, that she would never keep the appointment, for he had torn her jacket up. The jacket was a valuable one and a present from Mills. It was found in the house last night torn in shreds. It would seem that Mills had killed his mistress and then gone home and shot himself.

Mrs. Rising's body has been taken to the morgue for an examination of the number and character of the wounds. Rising is confined in the police station, though the coroner believes him innocent of any knowledge of the crime.

Son Avenges His Father's Murder.

TEXARKANA, Tex., Nov. 18.—George W. Russel, the largest cotton planter in this section, was fatally wounded yesterday evening by a negro at Garland City, Ark., twenty miles east of here. Russel's young son, Rube, who witnessed the attack, ran to a neighboring store, and grabbing a shotgun discharged both barrels into the negro, killing him on the spot. Russel has since died.

The Crew Refused to Work.

HALIFAX, N. S., Nov. 18.—A large full-rigged ship is anchored in a dangerous position near the chain ledges, having probably been caught on a lee shore in a gale. The ship proves to be the Bridgewater, bound to St. John, N. B. Her crew refused to perform duty, and men from shore have contrated to take her out of her dangerous position.

Arensdorf's Trial.

SIOUX CITY, Iowa, Nov. 18.—The state began taking testimony in the Arensdorf case yesterday. Seven witnesses were examined, the testimony, in the main, being the same as adduced at the former trial. The chief counsel for Arensdorf says that Fitzsimmons, a witness, who saw Haddock fall, will swear that Leavitt, the variety theater manager, fired the shot that killed Haddock. Heretofore Fitzsimmons has stated that while he saw the pistol flash, and the murderer and his victim, he declined to name the man who did the shooting.

Rejected to be Arrested.

KNOXVILLE, Iowa, Nov. 18.—The sheriff of Marion county and the marshal of Pleasantville, went out to the residence of Lewis Reynolds, yesterday, a mile and a half southeast of Pleasantville, to arrest his son, John Reynolds, charged with forgery and obtaining money under false pretenses. The young man refused to be arrested, and drawing a pistol, shot himself in the forehead. He died instantly.

Tillman C. Justice Hanged.

CANTON, Ga., Nov. 18.—Tillman C. Justice was hanged at Hiawassee, at noon today, in the presence of about seven hundred people. Justice was an illicit distiller and was sentenced to death for the murder of James B. Goddard, who had informed upon him. Justice was aged thirty and Goddard seventy-five years.

Blown to Atoms by Natural Gas.

CARLYLE, O., Nov. 18.—Through carelessness last evening, the house occupied by Rev. Wright was blown to atoms. Explosion of natural gas. Nobody at home.

Hawaiian News.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 18.—The steamer Belgic, which arrived from China and Japan yesterday, touched at Honolulu, and brings advice in regard to the opening of the Hawaiian legislature. King Kalakaua made a brief address in opening the session, in which he referred to needed reforms, and concluded as follows: "I take great pleasure in informing you that the treaty of reciprocity with the United States has been definitely extended for seven years, upon terms the same as those in the original treaty, with the addition of a clause granting to National vessels of the United States the exclusive privilege of entering Pearl river harbor, and establishing there coaling and repair stations. This has been done after mature consideration and interchange between my government and that of the United States of the interpretation of said clause, whereby it is agreed and understood it does not cede any territory or part with or impair any right of sovereignty or jurisdiction on the part of the Hawaiian Kingdom, and that such privilege is coterminous with the treaty. I regard this as one of the most important events of my reign, and sincerely believe it will re-establish the commercial progress and prosperity which began with the reciprocity treaty."

Carlisle and Tariff.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—Ex-Speaker Carlisle has sounded the keynote of the administration's revenue reduction plan. It is for a compromise. He says: "The amount of the proposed reduction should not exceed $70,000,000. In reaching this from forty-five to fifty millions should be taken from customs duty by increasing the free list by adding raw materials and reduction on such articles as come in general use among the great masses of people. If this can be secured we should favor taking the tax on manufactured tobacco to the extent of $30,000,000, leaving it on cigars and cigarettes. That, with reduction on customs, would make up the required sum. Unless the protectionists will concede this as a fair compromise, I will oppose taking any of the tax off of tobacco."

In regard to the proposition to make a reduction on sugar to the amount of $15,000,000 or $20,000,000, and on whisky to fifty or sixty cents a gallon, he is not disposed to agree to any change in the existing rates. He adds significantly: "The president and secretary desire that whatever is done in the way of tariff and revenue legislation should be done as speedily as possible, in order to relieve the treasury of its surplus and to prevent its further accumulation. There is complete harmony between the president, the secretary of the treasury and myself as to the proposed features of the reduction and the methods of accomplishing it."

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—The annual report of Mr. James W. Hyatt, treasurer of day was spent in calls of ceremony upon other cabinet officers and officials. To-morrow the British representatives will be introduced to the president, and on Monday a meeting will be held to arrange preliminaries and decide upon the forms of procedure. It is probable that the proceedings will be conducted behind closed doors, in the presence only of six conferees and without other formality than reducing to writing such formal agreements as may be reached.

THE CZAR IN BERLIN.

Russia's Ruler Meets the German Emperor—Other Foreign News.

BERLIN, Nov. 18.—The czar arrived here this morning and was met by the court officials appointed to receive him. He was received on his arrival at 10:45 this morning with great ceremony and display. A guard of honor bearing the imperial colors met him at the depot, and the Alexander regiment was drawn up in position along the Alsenstrasse esplanade. One company of guards with imperial colors and a company of the Alexander regiment, with its colors, were drawn up in front of the Russian embassy.

Prince William went to Wittenburg this morning, to meet the czar and escort him to Berlin. At the depot were the Royal Prussian princes, Count Von Moltke, numerous generals, and the Berlin and Potsdam garrisons. Prince William and the other royal prince and Count V. Moltke accompanied the czar, as he passed in front of the guard of honor at the depot. At 11 o'clock Emperor William left the palace and started for the Russian embassy, where many general officers and non-commissioned officers reported themselves to act as orderlies. Here the emperor dressed in the Russian uniform and wearing Russian orders, awaited the czar, who with Prince William soon arrived in an open carriage, drawn by four horses.

Both were in the Russian uniform. The czarina and Princess William followed in another carriage, dense crowds lined the streets along the route and much enthusiasm was manifested. Upon arriving at the embassy, the czar was received by the guard of honor, which represented the three flags of Germany, Prussia and Russia. This reception was accorded him as colonel of the Alexander regiment. Emperor William greeted the czar upon his entering the embassy with the greatest cordiality, and welcomed him to Berlin. The czar said that he had intended to first visit the emperor, but that the latter had anticipated him.

Emperor William remained for about three-quarters of an hour at the Russian embassy and then amid the most enthusiastic cheering returned to the palace. Shortly afterwards the czar accompanied by General Werder, returned the emperor's visit. The czar remained for a half hour at the palace. He then returned to the Russian embassy where he was afterwards visited by the princes who are staying in Berlin. The czar is in excellent health. The children of the czar remained in the train at the depot during the ceremonies of the reception. After the interview was concluded the emperor appeared at the window of the palace and was wildly cheered by the populace.

His Health Slowly Improving.

LONDON, Nov. 18.—Mr. Parnell writes to-day from Hastings to the Cable News office and says that his health is slowly but steadily improving. He says that he does not intend to speak during the recess, the physicians having advised him to avoid exposure to chills and all undue exertion. He is now staying at Hastings, where he says he intends wintering, unless severe weather compels his retirement to Egypt.

The Government's Action Illegal.

LONDON, Nov. 18.—Mr. Gladstone writes a letter that is just published, in which he says that the shooting affray at Mitchelton and the arrest of the Wilfred Blunt are not connected with the coercion law, and therefore the government's action in regard to these events are illegal.

Special Constables Hard to Get.

LONDON, Nov. 18.—There is thus far rather a poor response to Sir Charles Warren's appeal for special constables, and the work of enrolling proceeds slowly.

HERR MOST IN COURT.

A Day Fixed for His Trial and the Anarchist Released on Bond.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—The court room of one of the general sessions was crowded to-day with people who were curious to get a glimpse of the Anarchist leader, Herr Most. At 10:30 Most was taken from police headquarters by Inspector Byrnes, and reached the court a little before 11 o'clock. His grizzled beard gave him a fierce look, and as he sat at the bar beside his counsel, Mr. Howe, he attracted considerable attention. Before the proceedings opened he had a vigorous discussion with his lawyer. Most appeared very unconcerned and appeared as though being tried for seditious utterances was an every day occurrence. Judge Cowing took his seat on the bench at 11 o'clock.

The proceedings were delayed somewhat by the tardiness of the district attorney. On his arrival he called the case of Most and asked that a day be set for his trial and that the bail be fixed at $3,500. Most, he said, was convicted of the same offense once before, and was a persistent violator of the law. Most's counsel objected to such large bail and said that he thought $500 sufficient. His client, he said, knew that proceedings had begun against him, and that he was liable to be arrested for his Saturday night utterances, yet he did not run away.

Judge Cowing thought that $1,500 bail would be sufficient, at which figure bail was finally fixed. November 22 was fixed as the day for the trial of the case. A Mrs. Hoffman, residing at 62 East Seven hundred, who said her husband was a physician, went on the bond. She swore she was worth property to the value of $30,000. To a reporter of the United Press she said that although her husband and herself had taken no active part in Anarchists' plots they were both heartily in sympathy with the doctrines advanced by them.

OAKLAND, Iowa, Nov. 18.—The neighborhood of Dennison is excited over the eloquence of Mrs. Henry Biocindale, the wife of a prominent farmer, with a negro named Davidson, who was working for Mr. Biocindale. The woman was well connected and had all the comforts of life. She left three small children.

DRESS UP and LOOK REAL SLICK!

You can do this, as our prices are within reach of you all. Profits are a thing we will not think of the balance of the season. We have determined to sell $25,000 worth more Clothing before January 1st, and we will make prices do it. Our rush of trade is great, and our prices, which we have sledge-hammered down away below the shadow of a profit to us, is drawing all Clothing buyers to us. Only think of it:

$2 50 buys an Overcoat worth 5; $3 50 buys an Overcoat worth 6; $5 buys an Overcoat worth 9; $10 buys an Overcoat worth 15; $15 buys an Overcoat worth 20.

$2 50 buys a Suit Worth $5; $3 50 buys Suits worth 7; $5 00 buys Suits worth 10 00; $10 00 buys Suits Worth 15 00; $15 00 buys Suits worth $25 00.

These prices we will continue until we have accomplished our purpose, and if you come early your opportunities for a selection are best. Just received a large invoice of Fur Caps and Underwear, which we have added to the rest of the stock and will let go at the same rate that we advertise other goods for, regardless of profit or cost.

SATURDAY EVEN'G, NOV., 19, 1887.

THE Democrats have carried New York for six years in succession, and the indications point to another victory in 1888.

THE Democrats have a clear majority of eleven in the next House of Representatives. The official list shows 168 Democrats, 153 Republicans and four Independents.

THE Robertson County Democrat says: "Gambling and whisky selling is becoming so public in Mt. Olivet, that even school boys know the names of all the parties thus engaged, and discuss the matter as they would a fight or a game of ball."

THE Democrats of Mercer County will follow the example set by Woodford and Boyle counties in regard to the primary election to select a candidate for Sheriff. Three men will be appointed for each voting precinct to carry a sealed ballot box and canvass the district, the delegates to meet, and the candidate who gets the largest number of votes to be the nominee.

Liability of Railroads for Damages to Property.

The case of Finley against the Louisville and Nashville Railroad Company taken up from the Whiteley Circuit Court has been affirmed by the Court of Appeals. The decision is as follows: "When the extraordinary privilege is given to a corporation to construct a public work, like a railroad, it must be done without interfering with any right then belonging to or being exercised by any individual. Therefore, granting that a public way may be changed or discontinued by the proper authority without any liability to the abutting owner, a railroad company has no right in constructing its road to change the location or grade of a public way so as to deprive the adjoining owner of his right to enjoy his premises by preventing ingress or egress, and if it does so, must answer in damages therefor."

THE many friends of Thomas Biggar, nurseryman, at Manchester, O., will learn with sincere regret of the sudden death of his wife, which occurred Saturday, Nov. 12, at the family residence in that place. The Signal says Mrs. Biggar arose in the morning in her usual state of health but died before nightfall. She was an estimable woman, loved and respected by all who knew her, and the community loses by her death one of its most charitable and neighborly citizens. Her funeral took place on Monday, her remains being deposited in the cemetery at that place.

THE suit of Mrs. S. M. Poyntz against the New York Life Insurance Company, filed some time ago in the United States District Court at Louisville, has been compromised. The action was brought for $10,000 insurance on the life of her husband.

Another Accident on the New Road. There was a regular epidemic of accidents yesterday and the day before. In addition to those already detailed, George Limerick, of Chester, is to be placed on the list of unfortunate.

He has been at work on the Maysville & Big Sandy Railroad. The company has had a large lot of ties piled up along the line through Chester. Limerick and others were engaged yesterday afternoon loading some of these ties on to cars for shipment up the road. While the men were thus employed a heavy bridge tie fell, striking Limerick on the back and shoulders. At first it was thought his back was broken, but he soon rallied from the severe shock. Dr. Browning was summoned, and found that the unfortunate man had sustained very serious flesh wounds and bruises, but does not think any bones were broken. Limerick is doing well, and his physician thinks he will recover.

A Long-Lost Jewel. Forty years ago yesterday, Miss C. L. Mackey—now Mrs. George T. Wood, of this city—lost a gold breast-pin in a dwelling house near Sharpsburg, B. th County. In removing a mantel-piece a few days ago some parties found the pin. Mrs. Wood was very agreeably surprised to hear of her long lost jewel.

GREEN-BALDWIN TRAGEDY.

Comments on the Deplorable Affair.
Baldwin Buried—Green's Examining Trial.

The remains of Deputy Collector L. D. Baldwin, who was killed at Lexington Wednesday, were interred at Nicholasville yesterday. The funeral took place at 1 o'clock in the afternoon. The burial was with the honors of Oddfellowship, of which order the deceased was a member. Members of the order at Lexington attended in a body.

Mr. Green's trial was called Thursday in the City Court at Lexington, but was continued till to-day. The case will not be heard until Mr. Green is able to be present.

The Lexington Transcript says: "There are four bullet marks on the side of the Phoenix Hotel commemorative of the tragedy. One went through the heavy glass of the bar-room window, through the very tough wood of the shutter, dented in the corner of the cigar boxes, struck a bar-keeper on the hand who was looking out of the window and like to have scared him to death. Three others struck solidly on the brick, and chipped a piece out and the other two made but little impression on the exceedingly hard wall."

The Transcript adds: "The almost unanimous sentiment seems to be that Green was absolutely forced to do as he did, and the fact that he did not hear being quite deaf—added to the fact that he evidently wanted to avoid a conflict made him refrain from violence much longer than men ordinarily do. He was repeatedly seen to protest against a conflict, and only resented it when it became evident that Baldwin intended to force it upon him."

The Daily Press says: "The strangest part of the whole occurrence is that the eye witnesses differ as to who fired the first shot. Some say that Green fired the first shot, and some are positive that Baldwin fired the first shot. Sheriff Moseley, of Jessamine County, says that Baldwin drew his pistol after he had been struck by Green in the face and forced back against the hotel. Green then fired at Baldwin, who staggered and started to fall before he fired. A Mr. Roberts testified that he saw Baldwin with his arm around Green's neck and trying to shoot, and that three shots were fired before he saw a pistol in Green's hand. Jno. Gordon, of Jessamine, testified that he saw Baldwin fire two shots before Green got his pistol out of his pocket. Mr. D. Kirkpatrick says he saw Green fire the first shot, and Baldwin fire his first shot as he was falling."

The Louisville Times, commenting on the tragedy, says editorially: "The grand jury of Jessamine County declared by indictment that there were reasonable grounds to believe that Lewis D. Baldwin was guilty of the very offense which Thomas M. Green afterward charged him in the columns of the Commercial-Gazette; but, instead of seeking vindication at the hands of a petit jury of his peers, Baldwin sought and received a pardon from Governor Knott, and being worsted in a contest with the pen, he appealed the Green case to the pistol, receiving therefrom a final and complete quietus."

Though a relentless enemy, Colonel Green is an equally fast friend, and his declaration in this city a few days ago, that his work in the Jessamine election affair was purely professional, and that, therefore, he harbored no malice toward Colonel Baldwin, and desired no difficulty with him, was, doubtless, the exact truth."

The night after the shooting, a clerk at the B. & O. express office claimed he saw a third party—"a small man wearing a light overcoat"—shoot at Baldwin.

The Enquirer correspondent says: "Other parties are mentioned who are said to have seen two men shooting at Baldwin.

A turfman, who was attending the horse sale, says that if the two men had been left to themselves Baldwin would have given Green a bad beating, as he appeared to be gaining the upper hand, and was full of vim and strength. The turfman put it that he would not have put one dollar against one hundred dollars for Green's chances. He also stated that until the men were parted Green could not draw his pistol without danger of be ing instantly killed. The statement that more than two men were engaged in the shooting is strangely enough born out by the testimony. Green's pistol was a five shooter. He shot out all the loads. Three bullets struck the brick wall of the Phoenix Hotel, against which Baldwin was standing. The marks are there to show it. A fourth went through the window of the Phoenix bar, leaving a nice, round hole. There are four shots accounted for. It is positively certain that two balls entered Baldwin's body in the region of the heart. Here are six shots. Who fired the odd shot?

Mr. Frank Woolley will swear that Green stood over Baldwin and fired down at him twice after he had been almost mortally wounded. Every body knows that Baldwin did not want to be a murderer."

We have just five weeks in which to sell what Overcoats we have left on hand. We are going to clean them out! The same can be said of our Heavy Suits; they must go too. At the close of the season we will be able to say that our winter goods are sold out. Looking at this from an ordinary standpoint it would seem a Herculean task, as all know that we carry a tremendous stock of Clothing. Therefore to make this clean sweep, we will need the assistance of the public. To gain this assistance it will require something on our part, and which will be this:

Nowhere Will You be Able to Buy As Good Goods For as Little Money

as we will sell you from now until the first of January. You help to swell our sales; we will save you money. We want all to come in and look at and price our goods. We want to show you how cheap good Clothing can be bought.

SERIOUS LOSSES BY FIRE.

OVER A MILLION DOLLARS WORTH OF PROPERTY DESTROYED.

The Cincinnati Railroad Shops at Ludlow, Kentucky, Burned—Narrow Escape of the Village from Destruction. A Big Cotton Fire in Memphis.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 18.—A fire that for a time threatened the destruction of entire Ludlow, started in the carpenter department of the Cincinnati Southern railroad shop at about 2 o'clock this morning. Only a narrow street separated the flames from the village, but a favoring wind and the unflinching efforts of the shop fire department, aided by the Ludlow fire department, a hand engine, saved the town.

The fire was one of the fiercest, hottest and most disastrous that has occurred in the vicinity of Cincinnati for many months. The total loss will exceed $200,000, and probably reaches $300,000. Its effect is to throw 400 men out of employment and probably strike a permanent blow at the prosperity and future of Ludlow, as it is not likely that the burned property will be rebuilt.

The fire destroyed everything connected with the extensive shops of the Cincinnati Southern railway, except the immense roundhouse, containing a large number of locomotives. This building is of brick, and Fortuna ely stood some distance from the shops. Had it burned, with its contents, the total loss would have exceeded $500,000.

As soon as the fire was discovered an appeal for help was sent to Cincinnati, and another to Covington. The fire department of the latter city refused to go, saying the roads leading to Ludlow were impassable. The Cincinnati department was willing, but was powerless, as McCoy, the owner of the steam ferryboat plying between Ludlow and Cincinnati, refused to transfer the Cincinnati fire engines. The Ludlow fire department responded, but were unable with their antiquated fire appliances to do more than thoroughly wet the houses contiguous to the flames, and thus in a large measure contribute materially to the salvation of the town.

The buildings destroyed were all of wood, brick and stone being used only in the foundation walls. Of course these shops, saturated as they were with oil and filled with combustible material, were easy prey for the flames, and burned like powder. The sight for miles around was a grand one, many parts of Cincinnati being illuminated as brightly as the sun.

An exciting incident took place at 5:30. Jack Smith, a drunken shopman, excited by the flames and whisky, rushed into the flaming pyre yelling "Hurrah for the American Flag!" Just in front of him was a large pile of red-hot rails, and he was about to fall over them, when two young men, Harry Ordelmund and Alexander Mahoney, rushed into the flames and pulled him out of his dangerous position.

The railroad supply store, containing $40,000 worth of goods of all kinds, was completely destroyed. A small amount of grain supplies in the depot alone escaped. The amount of oil burned is not known. The coal bins were not full, but hundreds of tons of fuel were burned.

The buildings destroyed were the car shop, machine shop, blacksmith shop, boiler shop, tin shop, brass foundry, repair shop, oil house, lumber shed, sand house, two water tanks, coal bins. The master mechanic office, behind the roundhouse, was saved.

No figures could be obtained on the insurance, but it is understood that the property was heavily insured.

A humorous feature of the destructive conflagration was the little Ludlow hand engine hovering like a fly on an elephant in its efforts to quench the two acre area of flame. The engine was operated by fully forty men, and threw a stream of water about ten yards from a two-inch hose. The sight provoked many numberless comments and much amusement to those not peculiarly interested.

The fire, although on the main line of the Cincinnati Southern, will not delay traffic, as there were enough side tracks in the vicinity to accommodate the hundreds of freight cars, engines, etc., drawn from the burning shops.

The origin of the fire is shrouded in mystery, and gave rise at first to many sensational rumors of incendiarism.

A Big Cotton Fire in Memphis.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 18.—A fire which resulted in the destruction of over $60,000 worth of cotton and bauldings occurred here last night. The flames started in press No. 8 of the Merchants' Cotton Compressed and Storage company, in the navy yard. This press contained 8,000 bales, and soon No. 4, with 5,000 bales, was also on fire. The entire fire department was called and had all it could do saving other presses in which were 50,000 bales.

The wind fortunately blew toward the river, saving the rest of the cotton. But the river was lined with coal barges, and it required a constant fight to extinguish the fires that were continually springing up among the barges.

Forty Chesapeake, Ohio & South western cars loaded with cotton ready for shipment east, valued at $650,000 were also destroyed. The amount of insurance is placed at about 50 per cent, and the presses and buildings burned were valued at $125,000.

The flames covered an area of three blocks and lighted up the whole city. The origin of the fire is unknown, but is supposed to be incendiary. Walter Mendenhall, fireman on the Little Rock railroad, has been arrested on suspicion.

A Heartrending Scene.

WICHITA, Kas., Nov. 18.—In Wichita county yesterday a two-year-old child of J. R. Hickman, slipped down a one-foot tube used in a well 110 feet deep and lodged sixty feet from the surface. The people for miles around congregated at the spot, and men began digging an excavation beside the tube, hoping in that way to reach the living grave of the child. They had got down but thirty feet when the carrier of the news left, but intended to keep at work. The scene was heartrending. The tears of the mother were mingled with those of her neighbors, and now and then from the depths issued the cries of the child, impelling the men to their work of rescue.
